ABSTRACT

Results of the annual surveys of the geographic origins, or permanent residence, of students attending institutions of the State University of New York (SUNY) during the fall 1977 and fall 1978 semesters are reported. Transfer students are defined as those undergraduate students who were enrolled at a SUNY institution for the first time in a given fall term, but who had attended other colleges or universities prior to the given fall term. The student and institutional data elements that enter into this report cover: student level, student load, permanent residence, education history, and program status; institutional location; and location of prior institution. The main body of each section is divided into: Part I, containing summary data for the complete state university system; Part II, which shows institution's enrollment of transfer students by load and permanent residence, as well as summary tables for each institution type; Part III, which contains separate tables for each New York county; and Part IV, with information on prior institutions and prior degrees as well as the current program status of transfer students. A publications list is appended. (LC)

APPENDIX -- PUBLICATIONS LIST

Publications List 349

INTRODUCTION

This publication on the Geographic Origins of Transfer Students is intended as a companion volume to both Geographic Origins of First-time Students and Geographic Origins of Students, produced by this office. It is a 'first' and is meant to provide this information for transfer students not previously available in published form. Together with the two publications mentioned above, which have been produced since 1968, this volume will provide a significant data resource for studies of the residence and migration of college and university students. The data contained in these volumes should be especially useful for enrollment projections and other facets of academic planning and policy development.

This report was derived from the results of the annual surveys of the geographic origins, or permanent residence, of students attending institutions of the State University of New York during the Fall 1977 and Fall 1978 semesters. All credit course undergraduate students who transferred into any one of all institutions of the State University system during the indicated semesters are included here.

Because of the conventional use of the term 'transfer students' and because different sources of transfer data may exist, the definition of transfer students used for this study is of special importance. Transfer students are herein defined as those undergraduate students who were enrolled at a State University institution for the first time in a given Fall term, but who had attended other colleges or universities prior to the given Fall term. With this definition, we have transfer students moving from two-year to other two-year colleges, from senior to other senior institutions, from senior institutions to two-year colleges, as well as from two-year to senior institutions. Even if no credits were transferable, albeit an uncommon case, the student moving from one institution to another would be a transfer student.

Students who simply change majors at the same institution are not considered transfer students in this study. Graduate students are not included in this study. The New York State College of Veterinary Medicine and the State College of Optometry which offer only graduate programs, are not included in this report.

The number of transfer students reported here is an understatement because of the difficulty some institutions have in obtaining background information on those students who are not admitted to specific degree programs by application. For example, in Fall 1978 there are 1,037 transfer students (3.8 percent) whose previous institution is unknown. There are undoubtedly many others who are not even known to be transfer students, but these are not likely to be seeking admittance to a program.

The student and institutional data elements which enter into this report are as follows:

A. Student data element

1. Student level (undergraduate only).

2. Student load (full-time/part-time).

3. Permanent residence (for New York State residents, county of residence; all other students are identified simply as non-New York, United States residents or foreign. Information on the permanent residence of non-New York students by U.S. State and foreign country is available for all credit course students in the Geographic Origins of Students.

4. Education History (from a S.U.N.Y. institution, whether from a Community College, Agricultural and Technical College or senior institution and type of Associate degree or no degree; from other New York institutions, whether from a two-year CUNY or private institution or senior CUNY, Federal or private institution; from outside New York State, whether a two-year public or private institution.

5. Program status (admitted or not admitted to a program and upper or lower division).

B. Institutional data elements

1. Institutional location (for state-operated institutions, the county of location; and for Community Colleges the sponsorship area).

2. Location of prior institution (for New York State institutions, whether State University or other; all other institutions are simply identified as outside New York State).

This publication is divided into two sections. Section A contains all data tables for Fall 1977; Section B contains those for Fall 1978.

The main body of each section is divided into:

Part I - (Tables 1 and 2) - Part 1 contains summary data for the complete State University system. Table 1 arrays transfer students by load, institution and institution type. Table 2 provides a system-wide summary of the permanent residence of transfer students.

Part II - (Tables 3 through 73) - Part II contains tables for each institution which display the institution's enrollment of transfer students by load and permanent residence. In addition, Part II contains summary tables for each institutional type.

Part III - (Tables 74 through 138) - Part III contains separate tables for each New York county. This provides information on the number of transfer students attending the State University from each county in the state of New York, and specifies State University institution in which they are enrolled. Tables 137 and 138 provide information on the institutional affiliation of transfer students whose permanent residence is outside of the State of New York.

Part IV - (Tables 139 through 146) - Part IV contains tables giving information on prior institutions and prior degrees as well as the current program status of transfer students. Table 139 shows the location, and table 140 shows the type, of prior institution. Table 141 contains program status of transfer students by division (lower and upper); table 142 adds to this the workload data and table 143 shows that information by percentages. Table 144 displays the types of degrees granted by SUNY two-year institutions to certain transfer students. Table 145 contains data on the number of students transferred into SUNY two-year institutions and table 146 displays this in percentages.

Although most surveys of the residences of college students suffer from the problem of a valid definition of "permanent residence", undergraduate transfer students are probably fairly free of the customary definitional inconsistencies. This is the case since most undergraduate transfer students are still unmarried and have had only one previous 'temporary' or 'local' address; the great majority are still living at home on a permanent basis when applying for transfer to one of the reported institutions and then enrolling as full-time students. It is these factors which tend to change as the students grow older and, as a consequence, make the determination of the student's permanent residence more difficult.

Because the meaning and application of these data will vary with the specific interests and problems characteristic of different users, we have provided the data in a format which permits maximum flexibility to the user. Any suggestions for improving these reports would be most welcome.

No study of this magnitude could have been undertaken without the cooperation of numerous individuals. We wish to express our appreciation to those persons on the individual campuses who have collected and provided the data to this office. Our gratitude is also expressed to this office's statistical staff who are responsible for the editing and verification of the data; and the typing and secretarial staff who have the responsibility for preparation of the final typescript for publication and the proper distribution of the report.

[b] Date of establishment as a state college or institution.

[c] Date of incorporation into State University of New York.

[d] As of July 1, 1975, New York City Community College and the other community colleges (not shown here) sponsored by the New York City Board of Higher Education were no longer a part of the State University of New York.

NOTE: Dates preceding date indicated for establishment as a state college or institution refer to institutional antecedents of the present college or university. These may have been private institutions or controlled by a governmental entity other than the state. Intermediate institutional developments such as other college affiliation or date of first baccalaureate program offering have been omitted for the sake of brevity.
